O PEN since 1986, the Bukit Cahaya Seri Alam Agricultural Park in Shah Alam stands out as the world's first agro-forestry park. The 817ha area has a four-season house, conservatories, a dam and mini zoo. Chalets and campsites are available for overnight stays. Its latest attraction is the Skytrex Flying Fox stretching 22m aboveground.

L EARN science the fun way at Petrosains at Suria KLCC. Interactive exhibits allow the visitor to see and touch the scientific equipment and displays at the various sections.

N ESTLED within the Bukit Lagong Forest Reserve, 16km away from the city centre, Forest Research Institute Malaysia, better known as FRIM, is a centre for the development of education in forestry. The centre's herbarium was established in 1908 and houses over 200,000 specimens of plants, a nursery, and library. The lush green canopies also make the ideal backdrop for outdoor wedding photo shoots.
