Selangor to host symposium on conservation

INTERNATIONAL firefly experts, researchers and conservationists will gather in Selangor next month to discuss new findings on the conservation and restoration of firefly habitats.

The Second International Firefly Symposium, themed “Firefly Conservation: From Science to Practice”, will be organised by the Forest Research Institute Malaysia (FRIM) and the Malaysian Nature Society (MNS) from Aug 2 to 5 at Holiday Villa Subang.

The symposium, supported by the Selangor Government, Tourism Selangor, Tourism Ministry, Tengku National Berhad (TNB) and Malakoff, will provide a platform for experts to share their discoveries and conservation efforts carried out in other parts of the world.

Prof Ohba Nobuyoshi from the Ohba Firefly Institute in Japan, will share his experience in working with local communities to restore damaged firefly habitats in various parts of Yokokuka city, undertaking river restoration and firefly conservation activities, including getting schools involved in the efforts.

Ohba has also been involved in a firefly study conducted by MNS from 1998 to 2001 along the Selangor River.

FRIM’s firefly researchers will also present findings of their firefly habitat and population monitoring studies conducted along the Selangor River over the past five years.

More than 100 researchers, academics, students, nature societies and environmental non-governmental organisations will attend the symposium.

The First International Firefly Symposium was held in Thailand in 2008.
